IT

Hello this is my first time ever writing a story.(That might be published). English isn't my first language so if you find spelling or grammatical errors, please tell me.

1989 Derry Maine

IT was slowly and grudgingly awaking, after 27 long years, from IT's deep hibernation. Oh how IT hated the first few hours after waking. IT's body was as stiff as a board. How dreadful. The second thing IT noticed after awakening was how IT's stomach was gnawing on itself. How hungry IT was. Slowly IT rises from the floor, with each small movement, the bells witch are sewn onto IT's costum ring. Time to hunt and gorge itself on the flesh of some little humans.

Goergie was quite bored, since Bill couldn't play with him. Bill had gotten sick, playing outside, while it rained. So there Mother forbade him to go outside, too. Which wasn't fair at all. He wouldn't get sick. He ate all his vegetables after all. That's why Goergie secretly snuck outside with the paper boat, Bill made him some time ago.

At the same time. IT was skulking in one of the sewer holes. Near the Denbroughs house, searching for prey. When IT spotted a small child in a yellow rain coat, playing with his paper boat. The hunger took over, and all that was left, was a small puddle of blood. Which disappeared down the sewer drain, becouse of all the rain.
